THE SCUPPERNONG. This fine species of grape is attracting the attention of fruit and grape culturists in this section of Virginia, to an extent which promises to equal the zeal of their brothren of the Old North State. They have tasted the North Carolina wine, eaten the grapes, have seen them growing, have studied their chat-For Ladies - Rich Cashme es and De Laines; acter, and are now enthusiastic in their cultivation. The scuppernong, it is thought by some, has not yet been brought to its perfection, and the delicious wine expressed from it may yet be improved upon. At present, the Scuppernong wine is equal to any which we have ever tasted, for purity and pleasantness of taste, and in the former virtue far excels them all. The extensive manufacture of spurious wines in this country and abroad demands the recognition of native resources. and with such preedents as have been established in the manufacture of the "sparkling Catawba" and the above mentioned excellent article, we see no reason why, with every

INSTRUCTION TO A JURY. "If the jury believe, from the evidence, that the plaintiff and defendant were partners in the grocery, and that the plaintiff bought out the defendant, and gave his note for the interest and the defendant paid for the note by delivering to the plaintiff a cow, which he warranted "not breachy," and the warranty was broken by reason of the breachiness of the cow, and he drove the cow back and tendered her to the defendant, but the defendant refused to receive her, and the plantiff took ber home again, and put a heavy yoke or poke upon her, to prevent her from jumping the fence, and by reason of the yoke or poke broke her neck and died; and if the jury further believe that the defendant's interest in the grocery store was worth any thing, the plaintiff's note was worthless, and the cow was good-for nothing, either for milk or beef, then the jury must find out for themselves how, they will decide the case; for the court, if it understands itself, and it think it does, don't know how such a case should be de-

SENSIBLE PEOPLE. St. Louis is a city of sensible people in many respects. A correspondent writing from that western metropolis says: "The people of this city, as you have heard, were Flannels; Towelings; Plain White and Checked | not made crazy by the Atlantic Telegraph, but kept at their business like good citizens and let the world take its course. When it gets to work we will do our part in patronizing it. Rely upon that.
